GPR37 and Related Receptors: Disease Regulation

Message from the Guest Editor

The vertebrate G protein-coupled receptors 37 and 37-like 1 (GPR37 and GPR37L1) are distinctively expressed in neuronal glia, and recent studies have also reported their specific expression in peripheral tissues. Their specific interaction with prosaposin and derived cytoprotective ligands has been actively debated. This Special Issue of the International Journal of Molecular Sciences focuses on the various fields of advanced research on GPR37 and GPR37L1, and welcomes both original research articles and review papers that deal with the molecular mechanisms underlying the role of these GPCRs in health and disease. Keywords: GPR37; GPR37L1; prosaposin; neuroprotection D1; mechanisms; pathology; mouse models

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
