Theme Issue Honoring Prof. Dr. Ludger Wessjohann's 60th Birthday: Natural Products in Modern Drug Discovery

Message from the Guest Editor

In 2021, Prof. Dr. Ludger Wessjohann, Professor and Director of Department Bioorganic Chemistry at Leibniz Institute of Plant Biochemistry, Halle, Germany has his 60th birthday. In recognition of his outstanding lifetime scientific contribution, we have arranged a Special Issue to which you are invited to submit a manuscript. This Special Issue welcomes original articles, communications and reviews dealing with the isolation and/or the investigation of mechanisms of action of natural products and their synthetic analogs with potential anti-cancer effects. Finding target-identification (with biological assays together with computational studies), in vivo studies and the design of novel natural product derivatives with improved biological effects are also welcome. Pharmacological studies should include appropriate positive controls. Studies that were performed with plants extracts must include a phytochemical investigation of the extracts.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, and molecular biophysics. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
