

Special Issue

Pharmacogenomic and Pharmacogenetic Characterisation of Sarcomas

Message from the Guest Editors

We are delighted to announce a call for submissions to a Special Issue of the International Journal of Molecular Sciences on the topic of pharmacogenomics and pharmacogenetics in musculoskeletal sarcomas.

Although not yet as advanced as for other cancers, pharmacogenetic and pharmacogenomic studies applied to musculoskeletal tumors have been providing new insights into the genetic background of these rare sarcomas and are indicating new candidate biomarkers, which may impact clinical care management.

Translation to clinical settings of this body of information is expected to improve both effectiveness and safety of conventional chemotherapy trials, as well as to provide new tailored treatment opportunities to personalize treatments. We encourage submission of both original research articles and reviews on pharmacogenomic and pharmacogenetic studies in bone and soft-tissue tumors. All submitted articles will undergo peer review.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, and molecular biophysics. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
