Signaling in Plant Reproduction

Message from the Guest Editors

Angiosperm's reproduction relies on an intricate network of signaling events which regulate different steps of the reproductive process: floral organ development, ovule and pollen development, pollen–pistil interactions, double fertilization, and seed and fruit development. This Special Issue focuses on “Signaling in Plant Reproduction” and aims to cover the latest insights on all of these topics. We would like to invite you to contribute to this Special Issue, in any of the topics described above, either in the form of an original research article or a review.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.

Author Benefits

Open Access:

free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, MEDLINE, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology) / CiteScore
- Q1 (Organic Chemistry)
