Porphyrin and Biomolecules: A Long-Lasting Friendship

Message from the Guest Editors

The aim of the Special Issue "Porphyrin and Biomolecules: A Long-Lasting Friendship" is to explore the more recent advances on the covalent and non-covalent interactions between porphyrins or related macrocycles and biomolecules. This Special Issue welcomes interdisciplinary original research papers or comprehensive reviews focusing on the wide versatility of the supramolecular interactions between porphyrinoids and biomolecules for potential applications as sensors, conformational probes and in the field of nanomedicine and biotechnology. A paper highlighting the spectroscopic and chiral outcomes of building supramolecular systems or chiroptical probes will also be covered in this Issue.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
