Biological Interactions of Bioactive Natural Products

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue covers recent innovations relating to various bioactive natural products and their applications in the pharmaceutical, nutraceutical, and cosmeceutical fields related to academia, research, and industry. This Special Issue's emphasis is placed on biological mechanisms associated with interactions between bioactive natural products and biological systems.

Outcomes may include all traditional endpoints caused by naturally occurring chemicals, both in vivo and in vitro. Endpoints of interest include but are not limited to preventing and managing human diseases, human health and skin aging, new strategies of using natural drugs, and biotechnology for yielding bioactives.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.

Author Benefits

Open Access:

free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, MEDLINE, Embase, CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q1 (Biochemistry and Molecular Biology) / CiteScore
- Q1 (Organic Chemistry)
