Embryo-Maternal Interactions Underlying Reproduction in Mammals

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue, “Embryo-Maternal Interactions Underlying Reproduction in Mammals”, will include a selection of recent research topics and current review articles related to the study of embryo-maternal interactions in mammalian species during the preimplantation phase. Up-to-date review articles, commentaries as well as original experimental papers are welcome. Since the reproductive strategies show considerable differences between mammalian groups, articles are not restricted to a specific mammalian species and comparative approaches among species are also welcome.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
