Advances of Ion Channels in Inflammatory Diseases and Cancer

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue focuses on understanding the roles of ion channels in immune and cancer cells under pathological conditions and microenvironments. Ion channels are potential drug targets for the treatment of acute and chronic inflammatory diseases including cancers. Examples of inflammatory diseases include allergies, asthma, autoimmune diseases, inflammatory bowel disease, and tissue fibrosis. In cancers, non-cancer cells such as immunostimulating and immunosuppressive cells are included. Comprehensive review articles are also welcome.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
