New Frontiers in Musculoskeletal Tissue Repair and Tissue Regeneration

Message from the Guest Editors

Along with pharmacological treatments, complementary therapies have gained increased attention due to their analgesic, anti-inflammatory, immune-modulating effects and promotion of specific processes involved in cartilage and bone regeneration. Likewise, new strategies for improving bone and cartilage regeneration by functionalization with natural compounds have recently emerged. This Special Issue intends to attract high-quality research on non-pharmacological approaches to MSDs to boost integration among researchers, practitioners, bio-engineers, and health scientists in the field. Keywords

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
