Advances in Translational Research in Oral Tissue Regeneration

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue of International Journal of Molecular Sciences focuses on advances in translational research related to oral tissue regeneration as related to periodontology, oral surgery, and implant dentistry. High quality in vitro experiments or animal studies and clinical studies in addition to cutting edge reviews providing new insights on the biological mechanisms and potential clinical applications of novel technologies aimed at regenerating hard and soft oral tissues will be considered for rapid review and publication.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The International Journal of Molecular Sciences (IJMS, ISSN 1422-0067) is an open access journal, which was established in 2000. The journal aims to provide a forum for scholarly research on a range of topics, including biochemistry, molecular and cell biology, molecular biophysics, molecular medicine, and all aspects of molecular research in chemistry. IJMS publishes both original research and review articles, and regularly publishes special issues to highlight advances at the cutting edge of research. We invite you to read recent articles published in IJMS and consider publishing your next paper with us.
