

Special Issue

Featured Papers in Inorganic Materials 2025

Message from the Guest Editors

We may cordially invite colleagues and experts in the field of inorganic materials to submit original articles and critical reviews describing the synthesis of inorganic materials following alternative ecofriendly methods, new protocols and strategies for the reuse of inorganic materials, and newly emerging areas of interest involving the sustainable use of inorganic materials. The relationships between material structure and properties are of general interest, and may lead to discoveries of novel functional materials, which may lead to the development of new technologies. This Special Issue will embrace studies on a wide range of materials with fascinating structures and properties, for a wide range of applications.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Inorganic chemistry remains a lynchpin of modern chemistry, not only embracing the function and reactivity of combinations of most elements of the periodic table, but also providing a footing for studies of materials, catalysts, drugs, fuels and industrial chemicals. Arguably, the role and reach of inorganics in society have never been as great as today. Adventurous research at the heart and at the extremes of inorganic chemistry is vital to further advances and Inorganics offers authors the opportunity to publish exciting new research in an open access format.

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), CAPlus / SciFinder, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q2 (Chemistry, Inorganic and Nuclear) / CiteScore - Q2 (Inorganic Chemistry)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 16.6 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 2.5 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
