

Special Issue

Selected Papers from the 1st International Electronic Conference on Entomology

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue is in cooperation with the 1st International Electronic Conference on Entomology (IECE), organized by Insects from 1 to 15 July 2021 on the MDPI Sciforum platform. All conference contributors, both to oral and poster sessions, are encouraged to submit a full paper related to their contribution to this Special Issue of Insects, with a 20% discount on the Article Processing Charge (if accepted). Submission of a manuscript to Insects is independent of conference proceedings and will follow the standard peer-review process. Submitted manuscripts to Insects should fulfill the following criteria:

- Title and Abstract should be substantially different with that of the conference paper, so that they can be differentiated in various databases.
- 50% new data should be added to make it a real and complete journal paper.
- The length of full manuscripts should accurately meet the publication standards of Insects. For more information, please visit:

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Arthropods are a diverse and abundant group of animals that are important to a variety of research dictates. For example, hexapods act as bio-indicators of ecosystem function and pest status and serve as model systems for questions concerning physiology, embryology, genetics, and social interaction. The editorial board and staff at Insects is committed to providing contributors an open access forum to showcase objective and innovative research as well as succinct review articles. Our journal is dedicated to providing timely and thorough review of qualified submissions and we welcome you to submit a contribution.
