Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

We are facing several innovations in the field of electrophysiology which are leading to changes in patient management. In particular, the use of zero-fluoroscopy, ultradensity mapping and new energy forms for complex arrhythmias ablation is increasing, with obvious advantages for patients.

This Special Issue will be focused on innovations in the electrophysiological world, on the clinical relevance of novelties thus far acquired, and on the near-future perspectives derived by the changes in the management of our patients.

The primary goal of the Journal of Cardiovascular Development and Disease (JCDD), ISSN 2308-3425) is to provide cardiovascular scientists a platform to publish their work in a quick and efficient way. Topics can range from studies designed to decipher the events underlying early heart development to studies focusing on the origins of congenital and acquired heart disease. Papers submitted to JCDD undergo a fast, yet thorough, peer-review process. In this process, we will apply strict ethical policies and standards. JCDD guarantees fast dissemination of results to a large scientific audience.
