Message from the Guest Editor

Dear Colleagues,

Nowadays, orthognathic surgery represents a continuous challenge. This is mainly due to the continuous improvement of technologies and the implementation of surgical techniques. The aim of this Special Issue is to provide a comprehensive overview of the advances in diagnosis and treatment of dentoskeletal deformities, with particular interest in the use of innovative techniques and technologies in orthognathic surgery. Therefore, researchers in the field of oral and maxillofacial surgery and plastic surgery are encouraged to submit their findings as original articles or reviews to this Special Issue.
