

Special Issue

Recent Studies in Brain Imaging for Neurocognitive Disorders

Message from the Guest Editors

This upcoming edition of the Journal of Clinical Medicine (JCM) invites the submission of both review and original papers for consideration for inclusion in the upcoming Special Issue, entitled 'Recent Studies on Brain Imaging of Neurocognitive Diseases'. The objective of the Special Issue is to collate timely articles from multimodal brain imaging research on Neurocognitive Disorders, including aging of subjects with increased risk of cognitive impairment, early diagnosis of neurodegenerative diseases by imaging, and the use of imaging in monitoring, management, and treatment of people with neurocognitive disorders. Case studies on clinical neurocognitive disorders using advanced imaging are welcome. Papers will be subjected to standard peer review during editorial processing.
