Clinical Updates on Diabetes Mellitus and Carbohydrate Metabolism-Related Diseases

Message from the Guest Editor

Despite significant advancements in the treatment of diabetes, diabetes mellitus and disorders of carbohydrate metabolism remain major public health issues worldwide. In recent years, as seen during the COVID-19 pandemic, diabetes has been a significant risk factor for severe outcomes in many diseases, making it a condition that requires urgent and proactive management. The purpose of this Special Issue is to enhance understanding and provide healthcare professionals with practical knowledge to improve patient outcomes. We hope this Special Issue serves as a valuable resource for clinicians, researchers, and all those dedicated to combating these pervasive diseases.
