Message from the Guest Editor

Maternal–fetal medicine (MFM) represents a dynamic field of healthcare that continually evolves to enhance maternal and fetal well-being. This Special Issue, entitled “Prenatal Diagnosis and Intervention: Shaping the Future of Maternal–Fetal Medicine”, aims to provide a comprehensive platform for the dissemination of cutting-edge research, clinical insights, and evidence-based practices in the realm of MFM. Our primary objective is to facilitate the exchange of knowledge among clinicians, researchers, and healthcare professionals, fostering collaborative efforts to address contemporary challenges in the care of expectant mothers and their unborn children. We invite contributions that encompass a wide spectrum of topics within MFM, including, but not limited to, prenatal screening, diagnostic techniques, perinatal interventions, obstetric complications, and neonatal outcomes. This Special Issue welcomes the submission of original research articles and comprehensive reviews that advance our understanding of MFM. We encourage submissions that explore innovative diagnostic tools, therapeutic strategies, and multidisciplinary approaches to optimize maternal–fetal care.
