Update on Laparoscopic Management of Gynecologic Malignancies

Message from the Guest Editor

In the last few years, there has been a notable development in the management of gynecological cancers towards precision medicine, characterized by personalization and minimal invasiveness. In particular, developments from a genetic, technological and molecular point of view have allowed an ever greater integration between diagnostics, surgical treatment and adjuvant treatments, with the aim of improving the survival and quality of life of cancer patients. In this Special Issue, we invite authors to submit papers on the rule of laparoscopy in the management of patients with gynecological cancer for diagnosis, primary surgical treatment, secondary surgical treatment, different minimal invasive approaches and new technologies.

Keywords:

- endometrial cancer
- cervical cancer
- ovarian cancer
- lymphadenectomy
