Clinical Management of Oral Healthcare in Diverse Patient Populations: Second Edition

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue focuses on the clinical management of oral healthcare in diverse patient populations, emphasizing real-world challenges and practical solutions. Delivering safe and individualized care remains complex in patients with special needs, older adults, medically compromised conditions, and those from diverse backgrounds. We aim to highlight clinically relevant evidence to support decision-making and improve patient outcomes. Submissions on case-based management, risk assessment, treatment planning, and complication prevention are encouraged. Topics include:

- Preventive and risk-based care
- Management of medically complex and elderly patients
- Behavioral and communication strategies
- Interdisciplinary care and clinical workflows
- Access to and continuity of care

We welcome original research, clinical studies, and reviews that provide practical insights and improve the quality and safety of oral healthcare.
