

Special Issue

Pulmonary Disease and Comorbidities, Clinical and Epidemiological Studies: From Neonates to Adults

Message from the Guest Editor

Pulmonary diseases remain a major global health burden, affecting individuals across the lifespan—from the neonatal period to advanced adulthood. Increasing evidence highlights the complexity of pulmonary conditions due to the frequent presence of comorbidities, which can significantly alter disease presentation, progression, and therapeutic response. Understanding these interactions requires a multidisciplinary approach, combining insights from clinical medicine, epidemiology, diagnostics, and public health. This Special Issue aims to collect original research articles and reviews that explore the clinical and epidemiological dimensions of pulmonary diseases in the context of coexisting conditions. Submissions are welcome from both pediatric and adult populations and may focus on acute and chronic respiratory illnesses, including but not limited to bronchopulmonary dysplasia, asthma, COPD, interstitial lung disease, pulmonary infections, and pulmonary hypertension. We look forward to your valuable contributions. Prof. Dr. Roxana Maria Nemes

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

There has been an explosion of gene and target based research and therapeutics in the multitude of fields that compose clinical medicine. The Journal of Clinical Medicine's (JCM) staff and editorial board are dedicated to providing cutting edge, timely, and peer-reviewed articles covering the diverse subspecialties of clinical medicine. The journal publishes concise, innovative, and exciting research articles as well as clinically significant articles and reviews that are pertinent to the myriad of disciplines within medicine. The articles published are relevant to both primary care physicians and specialists. The journal's full-texts are archived in PubMed Central and indexed in PubMed. Please consider submitting your manuscripts for publication to our journal and check us out on-line!
