Heart Disease and Chronic Inflammatory Conditions: New Insights

Message from the Guest Editors

We are delighted to invite scholars and researchers to contribute to a Special Issue of the Journal of Clinical Medicine (JCM) titled “Heart Disease and Chronic Inflammatory Conditions: New Insights”. This issue seeks to explore the multifaceted relationship between cardiovascular diseases and chronic inflammatory states. Chronic inflammatory conditions, including rheumatoid arthritis, psoriasis, and inflammatory bowel disease, are recognized as significant risk factors for the development and progression of heart diseases. Among other mechanisms, the underlying inflammatory processes contribute to endothelial dysfunction, atherosclerosis, and other cardiovascular pathologies. Understanding these connections not only enhances our knowledge of disease mechanisms but also opens the venue for innovative therapeutic strategies and preventative measures. We encourage submissions of original research articles and reviews that provide new insights into the pathophysiological links, diagnostic advancements, and novel treatments at the intersection of heart disease and chronic inflammation.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

There has been an explosion of gene and target based research and therapeutics in the multitude of fields that compose clinical medicine. The Journal of Clinical Medicine's (JCM) staff and editorial board are dedicated to providing cutting edge, timely, and peer-reviewed articles covering the diverse subspecialties of clinical medicine. The journal publishes concise, innovative, and exciting research articles as well as clinically significant articles and reviews that are pertinent to the myriad of disciplines within medicine. The articles published are relevant to both primary care physicians and specialists. The journal's full-texts are archived in PubMed Central and indexed in PubMed. Please consider submitting your manuscripts for publication to our journal and check us out on-line!
