

Special Issue

Acute Heart Failure: Clinical Management

Message from the Guest Editor

This Special Issue of the Journal of Clinical Medicine will highlight the current state of the art and showcase some of the latest findings in the field of acute heart failure. It aims to provide researchers with an opportunity to publish both original research and review articles related to recent advances in the acute heart failure and cardiogenic shock fields, with a particular focus on early diagnosis, risk stratification, advanced treatment strategies including mechanical circulatory support, heart transplantation and long-term left ventricular assist devices. In this setting, it is important to highlight both personalized management, tailored to each patient, as well as an interdisciplinary approach to acute heart failure management
