Current Challenges in the Management of Vitreoretinal Conditions: 2nd Edition

Message from the Guest Editor

In the ever-evolving landscape of Ophthalmology, the pursuit of excellence in understanding and managing eye diseases continues to push the boundaries of medical and surgical retina. Building upon the foundation laid by the first volume, we are proud to announce the call for submissions for the 2nd Edition of our Special Issue titled "Current Challenges in the Management of Vitreoretinal Conditions"

(https://www.mdpi.com/journal/jcm/special_issues/vitreoretinal_conditions). This Special Issue will delve deeper into the latest advancements and explore emerging challenges in the treatment and surgical intervention of vitreoretinal diseases. We aim to encapsulate the cutting-edge developments and innovative research that have emerged since our last volume, focusing on the enhancement of patient care and treatment outcomes for conditions such as age-related macular degeneration, diabetic retinopathy, retinal detachment, and more. We invite high-quality original research studies, both clinical and experimental..... We look forward to receiving your contributions.
