Clinical Aspects of Cardiac Arrhythmias and Arrhythmogenic Disorders

Message from the Guest Editors

Issues related to cardiac arrhythmias constitute an inherent problem in modern cardiology and internal medicine in general. In everyday clinical practice, we encounter cases that are seemingly easy but actually extremely difficult. Expanding our knowledge on various aspects of arrhythmology is extremely important for every cardiologist. We are currently focusing on the development of knowledge in this area, acquiring more and more experience with modern therapeutic technologies. It is extremely important that our own research and observation results be presented to the international cardiology community. Only in this way can we exchange experiences and scientific progress moving forward. This is the purpose of the current Special Issue of the Journal of Clinical Medicine, entitled “Clinical Aspects of Cardiac Arrhythmias and Arrhythmogenic Disorders”. Therefore, researchers in the field of cardiac arrhythmias are encouraged to submit their findings to this Special Issue in the form of original articles or reviews. We are excited to invite you to contribute to this Special Issue.
