Advanced Endoscopy and Imaging in Gastrointestinal Diseases

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue, “Advanced Endoscopy and Imaging in Gastrointestinal Diseases”, aims to bring together recent developments in endoscopic techniques and imaging technologies that are shaping the future of gastroenterology and gastrointestinal surgery. Over the past decade, innovations have allowed for more precise lesion characterization, facilitate early intervention, reduce the need for more invasive procedures, guide you better in surgeries, and ultimately enhance patient safety and recovery.

Beyond diagnosis, advanced endoscopic approaches are increasingly applied in therapeutic contexts. At the same time, novel imaging strategies provide crucial support for surgical planning, enabling better intraoperative decision-making and improving outcomes in complex gastrointestinal disease management.

This issue seeks to provide a comprehensive overview of how modern endoscopy and imaging are being integrated into everyday practice. The ultimate goal is to highlight their role in advancing the quality, precision, and safety of gastrointestinal treatment, both medical and surgical, while underscoring the benefits for patients and clinical teams alike.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

There has been an explosion of gene and target based research and therapeutics in the multitude of fields that compose clinical medicine. The Journal of Clinical Medicine's (JCM) staff and editorial board are dedicated to providing cutting edge, timely, and peer-reviewed articles covering the diverse subspecialties of clinical medicine. The journal publishes concise, innovative, and exciting research articles as well as clinically significant articles and reviews that are pertinent to the myriad of disciplines within medicine. The articles published are relevant to both primary care physicians and specialists. The journal's full-texts are archived in PubMed Central and indexed in PubMed. Please consider submitting your manuscripts for publication to our journal and check us out on-line!
