State-of-the-Art in Colorectal Surgery

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue aims to provide state-of-the-art knowledge in colorectal surgery. Colorectal cancer represents one of the third most commonly diagnosed tumors worldwide, with a progressively growing burden. Novel tools and multimodality approaches have been reported to significantly improve the outcomes of colorectal surgery. Submissions of papers describing novel surgical treatments for benign and malign colorectal diseases are warmly welcomed. This Special Issue will publish original research and review articles.
