Trends and Prospects in Sepsis and Septic Shock

Message from the Guest Editor

Sepsis, a life-threatening syndrome characterized by organ failure after infection, is the most common cause of death in hospitalized patients. COVID-19-induced sepsis is a classic example. Therefore, it is crucial to find a new strategy to further investigate the pathogenesis and pathophysiological process for sepsis treatment and new drugs. In this Special Issue, we welcome original research articles, reviews, opinion, perspective, and systematic reviews, including but not limited to the following themes:

- Investigation of the pathophysiological mechanism and new targets of sepsis
- New drug studies for sepsis
- Investigation of other treatments against sepsis

Keywords

- sepsis
- sepsis organ injury
- immunosuppression
- neutrophil
- neutrophil extracellular traps
- PICS
