Coronary Artery Disease Interventions

Message from the Guest Editors

The treatment of patients with severe ischemic heart disease is one of the greatest challenges in cardiology. Accordingly, we dedicate this Special Issue to this patient subgroup. This Special Issue (SI) of the Journal of Clinical Medicine, entitled “JCM—Coronary artery disease interventions”, focuses on recent advances in the interventional as well as pharmacological therapy. It aims to reflect the collaboration of interventional cardiology and intensive care medicine and will publish ground-breaking research articles of significant clinical and scientific value.
