

Special Issue

Application of Anticoagulation and Antiplatelet Therapy

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue delves into the different clinical settings in which we can apply antithrombotic therapies, both antiplatelet and anticoagulant. We will explore the different clinical scenarios of atherothrombosis: coronary, cerebral, and peripheral artery diseases. Therefore, we will investigate the role and efficacy/safety ratio of these different pharmacological strategies. In particular, we will focus on the clinical settings of highest thrombotic and bleeding risk, such as those with the contemporary presence of both antiplatelets and anticoagulants: atrial fibrillation plus acute coronary syndromes or ischemic stroke plus venous thromboembolism. An emerging area is that of pharmacogenetic drugs, and we will evaluate the possible impact of the use of clopidogrel or warfarin.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

There has been an explosion of gene and target based research and therapeutics in the multitude of fields that compose clinical medicine. The Journal of Clinical Medicine's (JCM) staff and editorial board are dedicated to providing cutting edge, timely, and peer-reviewed articles covering the diverse subspecialties of clinical medicine. The journal publishes concise, innovative, and exciting research articles as well as clinically significant articles and reviews that are pertinent to the myriad of disciplines within medicine. The articles published are relevant to both primary care physicians and specialists. The journal's full-texts are archived in PubMed Central and indexed in PubMed. Please consider submitting your manuscripts for publication to our journal and check us out on-line!
