

Special Issue

Clinical Advances in Pain Management

Message from the Guest Editors

The field of pain management has seen remarkable advancements in recent years, driven by innovative interventional procedures, emerging pharmacological therapies, and a deeper understanding of the complex mechanisms underlying pain. The Special Issue aims to showcase cutting-edge research and clinical strategies that are shaping the future of pain care. It covers a broad spectrum of cutting-edge topics in pain management. Among them are innovative minimally invasive therapies for conditions like spinal stenosis, advancements in neuromodulation techniques such as spinal cord and peripheral nerve stimulation, etc. It also explores the use of ultrasound-guided regional blocks for pain, highlighting their efficacy and growing role in clinical practice. Besides, it emphasizes evidence-based strategies for pharmacological management. With contributions from leading experts in pain medicine, the Special Issue seeks to provide clinicians, researchers, and healthcare professionals with actionable insights and practical updates to enhance patient care. We invite you to explore these transformative advancements that continue to redefine pain management and improve patient outcomes.
