Clinical Advances in Facial, Breast, and Body Aesthetic Surgery

Message from the Guest Editors

The landscape of aesthetic surgery is experiencing significant advances. Innovations in surgical techniques, technology, and patient care are reshaping the field, offering improved outcomes and patient satisfaction. The strong increase in publications and scientific research over the last decade has expanded knowledge in aesthetics, driving forward the development of safer and more effective interventions. From minimally invasive facial rejuvenation to complex breast reconstruction, this Special Issue explores the cutting edge of aesthetic surgery. Authors are invited to explore topics such as novel surgical approaches, advances in implants, emerging trends in body contouring, and the integration of non-surgical modalities. By showcasing the latest breakthroughs in both surgical and minimally invasive aesthetic procedures, this Special Issue aims to foster dialogue, collaboration, and continued progress in the pursuit of aesthetics and patient well-being.
