

Special Issue

Youth Sports Injuries: From Prevalence to Prevention

Message from the Guest Editors

The Special Issue seeks to provide a global platform for sharing best practices in injury prevention and sport safety enhancement in youth sport. We invite submissions of original research, reviews, and commentaries that explore the prevalence, mechanisms, risk factors, and prevention strategies for youth sports injuries. This Special Issue aims to provide valuable insights to help reduce injury risks and promote safe, sustained sports participation among youth athletes worldwide. Join us in contributing to this crucial discourse to ensure a safer future for youth athletes.
