Up-to-Date Research on Nerve Ultrasound

Message from the Guest Editors

Scientific interest in the applications of peripheral nerve ultrasound is still growing. Since 2023, a search for “peripheral nerve ultrasound” on PubMed has yielded more than 3700 citations. Ultrasound protocols are also increasingly being used in work-ups for the differential diagnosis of entrapment neuropathies, traumatic nerve lesions, plexopathies, and polyneuropathies. The second revision of the EAN/PNS guidelines on the diagnosis and treatment of CIDP included ultrasound for the first time in their supportive criteria for diagnosis. In addition, there is a growing number of promising technical advancements in peripheral nerve ultrasound. This Special Issue aims to present up-to-date knowledge on peripheral nerve ultrasound with a focus on clinical applications.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

There has been an explosion of gene and target based research and therapeutics in the multitude of fields that compose clinical medicine. The Journal of Clinical Medicine's (JCM) staff and editorial board are dedicated to providing cutting edge, timely, and peer-reviewed articles covering the diverse subspecialties of clinical medicine. The journal publishes concise, innovative, and exciting research articles as well as clinically significant articles and reviews that are pertinent to the myriad of disciplines within medicine. The articles published are relevant to both primary care physicians and specialists. The journal's full-texts are archived in PubMed Central and indexed in PubMed. Please consider submitting your manuscripts for publication to our journal and check us out on-line!
