Recent Diagnostic and Therapeutic Advances in Gastrointestinal-Disease-Related Gut Microbiota and Helicobacter

Message from the Guest Editor

We are accepting papers for the Special Issue: "Recent Diagnostic and Therapeutic Advances in Gastrointestinal-Disease-Related Gut Microbiota and Helicobacter". As represented by the relationship between H. pylori infection and gastric cancer, the relationship between the microbiota of the gastrointestinal tract and various gastrointestinal diseases, including cancer, is attracting attention. The relationship between gut bacteria and pancreatic cancer has also been clarified, and further research on the gastrointestinal flora will be conducted. We would like you to report on the elucidation of the relationship between various gut microbiota and gastrointestinal diseases, as well as treatment, including eradication. Image enhancement endoscopy (IEE) contributes significantly to the diagnosis of the gastrointestinal mucosa caused by microbiota, especially in the stomach with atrophic gastritis and intestinal metaplasia.

In this Special Issue, we are looking for reports that make full use of the recent diagnostic and therapeutic advances in gastrointestinal-disease-related gut microbiota.
