

Special Issue

Gynecological Cancers— Surgical Management, Prognosis, and Quality of Life: 2nd Edition

Message from the Guest Editor

The Special Issue will focus on the new findings in this area of expertise and will cover all the aspects of the path that women have to face. As regards treatment, the Special Issue will accept original articles or reviews on surgical treatment, radiotherapy, and systemic treatment for primary or recurrent disease. Thanks to the progress in treatment for many gynecological cancers in the last few years, the quality of life of patients has become an important issue for clinicians. In particular, papers focusing on the side effects of treatment, such as lymphedema, on menopausal symptom treatment in this subset of patients, or on the important topic of fertility preservation for gynecological oncological patients are also invited. Furthermore, we strongly believe that a 360° consideration of patients may lead to an improvement in the adherence to therapy and that the future of gynecological oncology might also look in this direction. We look forward to your contribution.
