

Special Issue

The Latest Trends in Spine Surgery

Message from the Guest Editors

In the past decade, great advances have been made in spine surgery, and innovations and techniques in this field have continued to develop and grow over the last decade rapidly; the future is bright. However, the modern goals of the future of spine surgery are to maximize the patient function and expedite a return to an improved quality of life. How will technologies shape spinal surgery during the next decade? This Special Issue aims to give its readers an overview of recent advances and continued challenges in spine surgery. We sincerely invite all spine surgeons and scholars in related fields worldwide to contribute to this Special Issue; original articles or review papers are encouraged.
