SIRS and Sepsis: Novel Aspects of Modern Research on Hyperinflammation

Message from the Guest Editors

In 2020, our first Special Issue on “Sepsis: Current Clinical Practices and New Perspectives” was launched (https://www.mdpi.com/journal/jcm/special_issues/Sepsis_Clinical_Practice). We were able to collect a large number of expert manuscripts on the whole spectrum of research on SIRS and sepsis underlining the importance of JCM as one important platform for researchers worldwide. Part I covered both clinical and basic immunological research on hyperinflammation and was such a success that we have decided to edit another Special Issue as an update for the last edition. In part II, we welcome articles providing new insights into a) new pharmacological pathways and targets in innate immunity, b) new tools for the rapid diagnosis of SIRS and sepsis (also including COVID-19-testing), and c) novel therapeutic approaches for inflammatory disorders, postoperative inflammation, and complication management.
