Transcatheter Aortic Valve Implantation and Replacement: Prospects and Challenges—2nd Edition

Message from the Guest Editors

We are pleased to announce the second edition of the Special Issue “Transcatheter Aortic Valve Implantation and Replacement: Prospects and Challenges—2nd Edition”, following the success of the first edition, which brought together valuable contributions on expanding indications, procedural innovations, and clinical outcomes in TAVI. For more details, please visit: https://www.mdpi.com/journal/jcm/special_issues/95Z39O9TDA. Over the past decade, TAVI has revolutionized the treatment of aortic stenosis; however, important questions remain. Current knowledge gaps include the long-term durability of transcatheter valves compared with surgical bioprostheses in younger patients, the role of TAVI in bicuspid anatomy and patients under 70 years of age, and the management of coronary and valve interventions after TAVI or SAVR. This second edition aims to build on the foundation established in the first edition by welcoming original research, reviews, and real-world data on patient selection, novel devices, procedural innovations, long-term outcomes, and structural considerations for complex TAVI scenarios.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

There has been an explosion of gene and target based research and therapeutics in the multitude of fields that compose clinical medicine. The Journal of Clinical Medicine's (JCM) staff and editorial board are dedicated to providing cutting edge, timely, and peer-reviewed articles covering the diverse subspecialties of clinical medicine. The journal publishes concise, innovative, and exciting research articles as well as clinically significant articles and reviews that are pertinent to the myriad of disciplines within medicine. The articles published are relevant to both primary care physicians and specialists. The journal's full-texts are archived in PubMed Central and indexed in PubMed. Please consider submitting your manuscripts for publication to our journal and check us out on-line!
