

Special Issue

Clinical Insights into Pulmonary Hypertension

Message from the Guest Editor

Recent advancements in understanding and managing pulmonary vascular disease (PVD), including conditions such as pulmonary arterial hypertension (PAH) and chronic thromboembolic pulmonary hypertension (CTEPH), have resulted in significant progress in medical care. PVD presents complex challenges for both patients and healthcare providers. This Special Issue explores the latest developments in diagnosing, treating, and managing PVD, offering insights into cutting-edge research and clinical practices. This collection of articles focuses on state-of-the-art diagnostic techniques like advanced imaging and novel biomarkers. We also explore emerging treatments, including new drugs, targeted therapies, and personalized medicine. Alternative approaches, such as rehabilitation medicine with structured exercise programs, are discussed for their benefits. Additionally, we evaluate factors related to altitude exposure and air travel to enhance patient autonomy and quality of life. We hope this Special Issue serves as a valuable resource to foster innovation and collaboration among healthcare professionals advancing care for pulmonary vascular disease.
