

Special Issue

Clinical Application and Assessment of Ultrasound Imaging

Message from the Guest Editor

Clinical assessment in health can solve many questions regarding diagnosis, treatment, and prognosis in patients. Is a key point in the daily activities of healthcare providers. There are many tools that could add extra value to the insight of clinicians, such as ultrasound evaluation. Ultrasonography may be considered a useful tool in medicine and physical therapy, permitting novel static and dynamic evaluations for different body structures such as joint, nerve, muscle, tendon, and ligament. In recent years, new image-analysis software has been developed to obtain relationships, new information or other interesting data in different body regions related with clinical assessment. I would like to invite researchers from across the world to contribute their knowledge and research in the form of novel and original articles and reviews for this Special Issue entitled “Clinical Application and Assessment of Ultrasound Imaging”. The purpose of this Special Issue is to highlight the benefits of the clinical application of ultrasound imaging for different pathologies and related with the health of the general population as well as clinical assessment.

About the Journal

Message from the Editorial Board

There has been an explosion of gene and target based research and therapeutics in the multitude of fields that compose clinical medicine. The Journal of Clinical Medicine's (JCM) staff and editorial board are dedicated to providing cutting edge, timely, and peer-reviewed articles covering the diverse subspecialties of clinical medicine. The journal publishes concise, innovative, and exciting research articles as well as clinically significant articles and reviews that are pertinent to the myriad of disciplines within medicine. The articles published are relevant to both primary care physicians and specialists. The journal's full-texts are archived in PubMed Central and indexed in PubMed. Please consider submitting your manuscripts for publication to our journal and check us out on-line!
