

Special Issue

Human Endometrial Development and Disease

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue on “Human endometrial development and disease” considers original research articles, review articles, commentaries and perspectives from all areas of endometrial research, stem cell biology, and organoid research, including—but not limited to—organoids from pluripotent stem cells or primary tissues as disease models, for developmental biology, for drug testing, for tissue engineering approaches, mathematical models, and tissue regeneration. Two-dimensional cellular models or co-culture cellular systems including endometrial cells with other cell types (immune cells, vascular cells, trophoblast cells and others) will be also considered for publication in this topic.
