New Frontiers in Facial Surgery

Message from the Guest Editor

Facial surgery represents a challenge for any surgeon due to functional and aesthetic outcomes. New frontiers such as computer-assisted surgery and new biomaterials in head and neck reconstructive surgery have changed facial surgery in terms of achieving more successful results for surgeons and patients.

Furthermore, computer-assisted surgery, in particular using a CAD–CAM system, improves results in terms of predictability and accuracy in order to obtain a reduction in operative time and a better quality of life. The aim of this Special Issue is to investigate new frontiers in facial surgery focusing on biomaterials and computer-assisted surgery.
