

Special Issue

Recent Advances in Geriatric Emergency Medicine

Message from the Guest Editors

This Special Issue of the Journal of Clinical Medicine has the goal to propose the most updated knowledge in geriatric emergency medicine (GEM) from both basic and clinical research. Accepted publications will focus on specific areas of care management in the emergency departments (ED) from the pre-hospital setting to the ED. Studies on the design and organization of specific ED tracks for older patients will also be proposed for publication.
