Celebrating the 110th Anniversary of Hohai University: Invited Papers for Coastal Engineering

Message from the Guest Editors

As 2025 marks the 110th anniversary of Hohai University, I am honored to invite you to submit high-quality and impactful manuscripts showcasing your research in coastal engineering for this special occasion in the Special Issue entitled “Celebrating the 110th Anniversary of Hohai University: Invited Papers for Coastal Engineering”. This issue is dedicated to celebrating Hohai University’s remarkable contributions to education and research in coastal and water-related disciplines. We welcome manuscripts addressing a broad spectrum of topics within coastal and offshore engineering, including but not limited to:

- Coastal hydrodynamics and sediment transport;
- Design, analysis, and monitoring of coastal structures;
- Shoreline erosion and protection measures;
- Estuarine and tidal processes;
- Offshore foundation engineering, including liquefaction, shear sliding, and slope stability analysis;
- Submarine landslides and their impact on offshore structures;
- Climate change impacts on coastal and offshore systems;
- Marine renewable energy systems (e.g., wave and tidal energy);
- Coastal disaster prevention, resilience, and adaptation strategies.
