Recent Development and Application of Hydrodynamics in Marine Environment

Message from the Guest Editors

The aim and scope of this Special Issue is to invite paper contributions on the recent developments and applications of theories, laboratory experiments, field measurements, remote sensing, and numerical modelling in hydraulic and marine hydrodynamics. Research articles covering the areas of artificial intelligence, hydraulic laboratory experiments, climate change and resulting sea-level rises, free-surface flows, hydro-informatics, the interactions of flows and waves with structures, internal waves, morphodynamics, naval architecture, remote-sensing applications, solitary waves, storm surges, tsunamis, typhoons, and wave dynamics are welcomed for possible inclusion in this Special Issue of the Journal of Marine and Science and Engineering.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

The Journal of Marine Science and Engineering (JMSE, ISSN 2077-1312) is an international peer-reviewed open access journal which provides an advanced forum for studies related to marine science and engineering. The journal aims to provide scholarly research on a range of topics, including ocean engineering, chemical oceanography, physical oceanography, marine biology and marine geosciences. We invite you to publish in our journal sharing your important research findings with the global ocean community.

Editor-in-Chief

Author Benefits

High Visibility:

indexed with Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), Ei Compendex, GeoRef, Inspec, AGRIS, and other databases.

Journal Rank:

JCR - Q2 (Engineering, Marine) / CiteScore - Q2 (Ocean Engineering)

Rapid Publication:

manuscripts are peer-reviewed and a first decision is provided to authors approximately 15.6 days after submission; acceptance to publication is undertaken in 1.9 days (median values for papers published in this journal in the first half of 2025).
