

Special Issue

Unravelling the Media's Role in Technological Innovation and AI's Environmental, Social, and Economic Impacts

Message from the Guest Editors

In an era marked by rapid technological innovation and the pervasive influence of artificial intelligence (AI), the media assumes a crucial role in shaping public perception and understanding. This Special Issue aims to unravel the intricate interplay between media narratives, technological innovation, and the diverse impacts of artificial intelligence (AI) on environmental, social, and economic landscapes. We invite contributions that explore the role of the media in shaping narratives around sustainability, that investigate the transformative influence of the media in driving technological advancements, and that scrutinize the varied impacts of AI on our world, encompassing both its positive and negative aspects. Keywords
