We are pleased to announce a new Special Issue entitled “Clinical and Translational Research in Ophthalmology” that aims to collect scientific publications including case, original, and review papers in the field of translational science in ophthalmology.

The key to translational research is bringing investigation results from basic science to humans and implementing them to clinical practice for the larger population. Most advanced treatments or diagnosis technologies are based on previous achievements of scientific discoveries made in the laboratory. To improve the care of ophthalmology diseases and benefit more patients, it is crucial to advance our understanding in translational research. In this issue, we target basic to clinical investigations in ophthalmology, and those in personalized medicine in ophthalmology care are also considered.

Journal of Personalized Medicine (JPM; ISSN 2075-4426) is an international, open access journal aimed at bringing all aspects of personalized medicine to one platform. JPM publishes cutting edge, innovative preclinical and translational scientific research and technologies related to personalized medicine (e.g., precision medicine, pharmacogenomics/proteomics, systems biology, ‘omics association analysis). JPM is covered in Scopus, the Science Citation Index Expanded (SCIE), PubMed, PMC, Embase, and other databases.

Author Benefits

Open Access:— free for readers, with article processing charges (APC) paid by authors or their institutions.
High Visibility: indexed within Scopus, SCIE (Web of Science), PubMed, PMC, Embase, and other databases.
Journal Rank: JCR - Q2 (Health Care Sciences & Services)
