The Future of Personalized Orthodontics

Message from the Guest Editors

We are pleased to invite you to contribute to our Special Issue, “The Future of Personalized Orthodontics”, to be published in the Journal of Personalized Medicine (Q1). This Special Issue focuses on innovative research, technologies, and clinical strategies shaping individualized orthodontic care. As orthodontics evolves, personalized approaches are becoming essential for achieving optimal functional and aesthetic outcomes tailored to each patient’s needs. The scope includes, but is not limited to:

- Artificial intelligence in diagnosis and treatment planning;
- Customized clear aligner therapy and digital orthodontics;
- Advances in skeletal anchorage systems;
- 3D imaging, CBCT, and precision orthodontics;
- Surgery-first and interdisciplinary strategies;
- Personalized biomechanics and force systems;
- Innovations in orthodontic materials and devices;
- Integration of genetic, myofunctional, and epigenetic data;
- TMJ management within the personalized care model.

This Special Issue highlights recent advances redefining orthodontics through personalization and innovation. We look forward to receiving your contributions.
