Frontiers in Chronic Kidney Disease

Message from the Guest Editor

Chronic kidney disease is one of the most important risk factors for end-stage kidney disease. The number of chronic kidney disease patients is increasing, especially with age. The optimal strategy to prevent the progression of chronic kidney disease is an urgent question worldwide that remains unanswered. This Special Issue of the Journal of Personalized Medicine aims to highlight the current state of the science and showcase some of the latest findings in the field of chronic kidney disease. We seek studies, including those that explore any conditions related to chronic kidney disease, using basic science, clinical and population-based approaches, as well as all kinds of behaviors for public awareness. Scientific advances in the field of chronic kidney disease will provide the promise of a more optimistic future for patients.
