Surgical Innovation and Advancement in Limb Extremities

Message from the Guest Editors

In the realm of surgical innovation, particularly concerning limb extremities, strides in medical science have reshaped the landscape of patient care.

Our forthcoming Special Issue aims to capture the essence of this journey, showcasing the latest advancements and innovations in surgical techniques and practices concerning limb extremities. We invite contributions that delve into the intricacies of surgical innovation, encompassing topics such as prosthetic developments, minimally invasive procedures, regenerative medicine applications, and advancements in rehabilitation protocols.

Authors are encouraged to submit original research articles, comprehensive reviews (including systematic reviews), and insightful communications that offer fresh perspectives on the diagnosis, treatment, and rehabilitation of limb extremity conditions. Furthermore, we welcome contributions discussing expert consensus, guidelines, and emerging surgical paradigms poised to redefine patient care in this dynamic field.

Join us in charting the course towards enhanced patient outcomes and transformative surgical practices in limb extremity care.

About the Journal

Message from the Editor-in-Chief

Journal of Personalized Medicine (JPM; ISSN 2075-4426) is an international, open access journal aimed at bringing all aspects of personalized medicine to one platform. JPM publishes cutting edge, innovative preclinical and translational scientific research and technologies related to personalized medicine (e.g., precision medicine, pharmacogenomics/proteomics, systems biology, 'omics association analysis). JPM is covered in Scopus, the Science Citation Index Expanded (SCIE), PubMed, PMC, Embase, and other databases.
